

The Ultimate Reality

Nowadays,
It's safe to say,
That I'm in the future.

A disturbing thought,
Guilts me alot,
To think we're destroying nature.

For what we thought would benefit,
Instead it opposed,
Then the weather hit.

Waves thrashing,
Beating up land,
Water rises as fast as it can.

Heat Waves making worst our daily grind,
Leaving fires, and desert behind,
People die of thirst and hunger,
The loss of agriculture we cannot rewind.

These outcomes could change,
For you, me, and all of us,
If only we ourselves would have the world maintained.

Reuse, Reduce, and Recycle,
We must ensure,
So that continuous remains life, in a cycle.

I will change the world,
By my pureness,

By my mind,
That will start the rewind,
And will affect all of mankind.

I will change the world,
by planting trees a many,
Riding bikes a plenty,
So we prosper, carefree.

I will make this world a better place,
For all the future generations,
Mother Earth has helped us live,
Now I'll live up to my reputation.
