

George was at school. He was listening to his teacher. His teacher gave the students a paper with boxes with numbers in them. There was a hidden picture in the boxes. After he heard the directions for the hidden picture project, George noticed that Greg needed help. Greg looked frustrated.

George showed Greg the directions on his paper. George read the directions to Greg. There were certain numbers that meant orange, black and green. Now Greg understood. He started coloring. George started coloring too. Both boys found that there was a jack 'o lantern in the hidden picture. They felt happy.

Greg said, "Thank you. I'm glad you're my friend."